When should I begin the application process?

The program begins in September at the two (2) training sites located in Springfield and Boston. It is wise to begin the application process in the spring (April-June) to ensure that you are considered for a space and to allow enough time for an interview.

When are interviews conducted?

The program will conduct group interviews in August and will accept approximately 20 applicants at each site (Boston and Springfield) who meet all the criteria for acceptance.

May I make an appointment NOW and send in my application tomorrow?

Do students get help finding an Internship placement?

Yes, we have relationships with several Substance Use Disorders treatment providers that will accept interns. Please speak with the program director about your interest and needs.

What about job placement?

The program director and training facilitators are often contacted by organizations or programs seeking to hire bilingual/bicultural staff. We will make job postings available to participants and encourage folks to apply. Moreover, we will provide some mentoring and guidance regarding job employment within the addictions treatment workforce.

If I've already taken a course in Addictions at another training program or institution, can I receive credit for it?

We can only give you credit for the classes that you attend with us. Trainings and/or classes that you take elsewhere might be used for licensure or certification, but that determination will be made by the credentialing body. The program will provide you more guidance in this regard.

You will not be certified or licensed upon completion of the program. You will have obtained a Certificate with Continuing Education Units (CEU's) upon completing all the requirements of the program.
